NOTES

Fee Increases

Normally fees increase yearly (usually between 2-5%) to take into account inflation and other factors. Validation fees are set by the university and can change in the future.

Overall Costs and Time Limits

The M.A. degree consists of 180 credits: 120 credits across six modules, together with a 60-credit dissertation. The full-time illustration overleaf provides a general idea of the overall cost of the degree (but note above the yearly fee increases).

Each year students choose how many credits to register (min 40 credits, max 180, though students can opt for just 20 credits one of the years if taking the degree over a long period). The M.A. must be completed between one and six years.

Other Fees

The APCL/APEL fee is only due when applying for credit for previous studies. Re-examination fees are paid if a failed module is re-taken. Deferral fees only become payable if a student defers modules beyond an assignment deadline. The school runs optional seminars and conferences which attract additional fees not covered overleaf. However, students are not required to attend any conferences or seminars.

Fees include access to various reading resources and there is no prescribed list of textbooks to buy. Nonetheless students should still expect to budget for some books during their course.

Instalments and Discounts

New students commencing part-way through an academic year pay for individual modules as needed. Thereafter, fees are calculated yearly based on the number of modules registered.

Fees are due each year on 20 September. Fees settled in full by then secure a 2.5% discount. Module fees can also be paid over instalments, though each year university validation fees must be settled by 20 September. Module fees can be paid over three equal instalments (due 20 September, 10 January and 10 April), or by a 25% deposit on 20 September, followed by six equal monthly instalments (20 October to 20 March).

Methods of Payment

The school's preferred method of payment is by direct bank transfer. Payments can also be made by credit/debit card and cheque. All fees paid are strictly non-refundable, regardless of reason. Therefore, only pay fees if absolutely certain of completing your studies.

Overseas students

Most UK institutions charge higher fees for non-EU students. However, King's fees are the same for both UK and overseas students.

Student Loans and Scholarships

King's does not come under the Student Loan Company or Student Finance England. We currently cannot offer bursaries or scholarships. We can provide a letter confirming your student status if required.
